Knowledge Society partners with schools and systems to deliver world-class school improvement programs to transform learning and belonging in every classroom.

Knowledge Society and our partners are pleased to present the Australian School Improvement Summit. This one-day event brings together leaders from across the country who are making the science of learning and evidence-based practice real in Australia's school systems and classrooms.

The time is now

A growing movement of education system leaders, policy-makers and teacher educators have built a consensus to realign classroom practice with the evidence. With the National School Reform Agreement embracing this change the challenge now is to develop the right models for implementation and scaling evidence-based practice nationwide.

The Summit will highlight what is required at the system and school level to achieve the Agreement's ambitions for the nation's students for high quality and equitable education for all. Successful school improvement comprises creating calm and orderly classrooms focused on learning, teacher-led, explicit teaching and the development of knowledge-rich curriculum resources for all subject areas. For primary schools a focus on all aspects of literacy development is paramount. Children need to be fluent readers in order to access knowledge within and beyond the classroom and evidence-based approaches to numeracy instruction are required to ensure Australian young people have the knowledge and skills to meet the demands of the knowledge economy.

Conference theme:

Better student outcomes, every classroom every postcode

The school is the right focus for reform efforts. We have seen a bottom up movement of individual teachers embrace evidence-based change.

This is a welcomed development, however, whole school approaches led by systems and schools will have far greater impact in the nation's 9,500 schools.

The challenge now is for leaders of systems to create the conditions, scaffolds, tools and resources to support the nation's change agenda.

Australia's 300,000 plus teachers deserve a well designed approach to school improvement. Their leaders need clear guidance and effective support. This will be the best way to lift Australia's educational outcomes.

AGENDA

8:20 am Registration

9:00-9:15 am MC Welcome to the Australian School Improvement Summit

Welcome to Country delivered by Thane Garvey, Wurundjeri Man

THEME: System, school and classroom level practice change – implementation is everything

9:20-9:40 am Convenor's Welcome: Elena Douglas, CEO, Knowledge Society

What's at stake: What effective school improvement could mean for Australian society and economy

Education is the main driver of a nation's economic prosperity, innovation, social creativity and social cohesion. Strong foundations in literacy, numeracy and general knowledge are the fundamentals of a productive workforce, and the best lever we have to reduce disadvantage and improve both Australia's productivity and equity. We know there is a pattern to how high performing schools lift student outcomes, our task now is to find the ways to share and replicate this model nationwide.

9:45-10:30 am Keynote Speech:

Increasing social mobility through improving educational outcomes: The English reform journey and implications for Australia

The Rt. Hon. Nick Gibb, former UK Minister of State (Minister for School Standards) at the Department of Education and Minister of State, School Standards (2014-2023)

As Minister for State for Schools and Education, Nick Gibb MP led a decade-long, highly successful, reform agenda to improve the performance of English education. The reforms have borne fruit. The Economist newspaper reported that England's schools have been "climbing up the league tables" as a result. In reading, a focus of reform, England has moved to third place in international rankings and in maths, "England's 15-year-olds have risen from 29th in the world in 2009 to 11th in 2022".

Mr Gibb will address one of his areas of sustained focus: improving the quality, rigour and content richness of the English school curriculum to deliver a fairer, more socially mobile society.

Response and thanks

Dr Edward Simons, Executive Director, Melbourne Archdiocese Catholic Schools

Dr Edward Simons will respond to the Rt. Hon. Nick Gibb, with comments relevant to the Australian and Victorian educational context. Dr Simons will also outline the curriculum, system change and evidence-aligned teaching activity that is underway across the MACS system.

10:30-10:50 am

MORNING TEA BREAK

10:55-11:35 am Discussion Panel:

The National Reform Agreement: Is it enough to create the incentives to deliver the change we need?

Panel Chair: Soon to be announced

Panel Members:

- Dr David Howes, Deputy Secretary, Schools and Regional Services, Department of Education, Victoria
- Dr Jennifer Buckingham, Executive Director, Policy and Evidence, Centre for Education Statistics and Evaluation, Department of Education, New South Wales
- Ross Fox, Director, Catholic Education in the Archdiocese of Canberra Goulburn Strategy matters. Australia has several decades of non-evidence aligned practice to make up for, with no time to lose. The National Reform Agreement signals the requirement for the States to ensure evidence-aligned practice in teaching, curriculum and reading instruction.

Agenda

Is this sufficient incentive? What levers do we have to get all of Australia's 9,500 schools improving? How important to the overall reform effort are quality, robust, curriculum resources for teachers? What can we learn from whole system reforms like Catalyst that are four years into their implementation in multiple schools.
